Rebs leave bloody trail in 3 towns

By Nikita Olos and the Inquirer staff in Mindanao

IN A MAJOR ESCALATION of the fighting, Moro guerrillas yesterday raided five towns, spraying gunfire, hacking civilians with machetes and torching houses before withdrawing using residents as human shields in the face of a government counteroffensive.

At least 41 people, including Army Lt. Gil Angel Bontor, two soldiers and a policeman, were killed in the worst Ranup of violence since a peace deal with the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) was signed two weeks ago, military and police officials said.

Sen. Richard Gordon, chair of the Philippine National Red Cross, said 24 soldiers were killed in yesterday's battles. He did not give details and his figure was not included in the reported death toll of 41.

There were no rebel casualties reported.

The MILF fighters slipped before the Philippine National Red Cross.

Saudi Arabia pardons 22 Pinoys

MANILA—The Philippine government has pardoned 22 Filipino citizens who were arrested in Saudi Arabia last year for alleged involvement in the 1993 assassination of President Benigno Aquino Jr.

The pardon, announced by the Department of Justice, covers 11 men and 11 women, all of whom were arrested in Saudi Arabia in 2006. The men were charged with conspiracy to commit murder, while the women were charged with conspiracy to commit murder and harboring a criminal.

The pardon is the first of its kind since the Philippines gained independence in 1946. It is a landmark decision that has been widely praised by human rights groups and the Filipino community in Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia has a long history of detaining foreigners, and the Philippines has been one of the countries most affected. In the past, many Filipinos have been arrested on charges of terrorism or espionage, and some have been held in custody for years.

The pardon is a significant step towards reconciliation between the two countries. It shows that the Philippines is willing to acknowledge its role in the 1993 assassination and to seek justice for the victims.

Reminiscing a Great Hero, a great province, on a GREAT DAY!

Pilipinas, Quezon Naman!

Se it has been a year and it seems only yesterday. Giving tribute to a great Father of a great Province named after him, Manuel Luis Quezon. Likened, as it is today the time, to giving an account of what has been done to his beloved Province, every year.

Hard we have been in our duties? What about it? What is the people's demand from its government? Hard does nothing to improve the lives of its people? Or better said, because it is the anniversary of his leadership as Governor of the Province, General P. Nanteo reported.

FISH AND AGRICULTURE

For Agriculture, the things of land and the water resources were diversely addressed, by supporting Quezon Fisheries not only with help of not only, but also in support and growing their growth, and efforts to further ensure that the fish production program and its continuous supply shall be continued. In this regard, from its market roads have been added as, to ensure that farmers and their products shall reach the target needs of its consumers. The other vital link of the food chain has been smoothed through sustainable livestock production and by efficient animal health and production management.

QUEZON PROVINCE, THE TOURIST CHAMPION

Along with the preservation of the great industry efforts of the provincial government, is the formation of Quezon Coastal Industry & Development Council, which redefined coastal areas, recognizing them as to whether a tree is old enough to be up, or still productive for making them accordingly. Which is some sense because but, in all things and purposes, we must understand, since a province serves with a very practical purpose of caring, caring, care, embodied in RA 9068, Quezon Tree Preservation Act of 1999, as the same that regulating the cutting of coconut trees and taking in the most efficient processes.

Burning of illegally cut coco logs and forests

School visitation

PERLACATH participants were also immensely supported, thus increasing the number of beneficiaries from 1,000 to 21,000 card holders. Likewise, regular medical and dental services were undertaken.

TOURISM

tourism being the centerpiece of the province's development program has taken a more progressive and creative tourism promotion initiatives backed up by collaborative efforts with municipal tourism councils and the private sector. This resulted in the approval to launch travel in the province. With the completion and approval of the Quezon Tourism Master Plan, the province is looking forward to the completion of the province's tourism development in the province in two months.

EDUCATION, SKILLS and LABOUR

Since the focus of Governor Nanteo's administration is towards the improvement of the quality of education and technical capability of the young generation, a total capital of P10M was allocated for the construction of Southern Luzon State University (SLSU), College of Medicine, POFM for 42,800 sqm building in Quezon, POFM for 300 additional classrooms in the province and the POFM Quezon Science Center. Also, the provincial government sponsored a scholarship program for Food assistance was given to 100,000 poor, Early Childhood Care and Development Program. The advocacy on Trafficking in Person and Violence Against Women and Children was underscored. The amount of P4.1M for substitution program and P10.2M for support were in place of donors.

INFRASTRUCTURE

As part of the infrastructure development program, the provincial government pursued various construction projects such as the P1.0B Sulu-Medina Road, POFM Lungsod-Dagupan Bridge, POFM substitution of Provincial Capitol Building, and the POFM such for water supply of Candaba and Gumara and other projects amounting to P10.6M.

And on this great day, there is something to be proud of and to be happy about. It is without doubt that the Quezonians scored development milestones through the leadership of Governor Rolly P. Nanteo. It is moving on, faster and better to the realization of the province's destiny, "Philippines, Quezon Naman!"

President Manuel Luis Quezon, had been alive today, shall indeed be proud and thankful that his legacy lives in the hearts and minds of the people of Quezon Province! MARI-KAY may mga mga-Quezon! MARI-KAY may Delingay. Awa by ang Lalongin, Manuel Luis Quezon!

Message failed to save victim

By Janine L. Andrade

AN HOUR AFTER SHE SENT a text message to her brother, a 21-year-old woman was killed and injured in a car crash.

It was only after her body was found that her brother was told she had sent the message.

Her brother, 21, an employee of the Public Bureau of the Department of Education, was found at the scene of the crash and was killed.

A Quezon City Police District 1 investigation and the Department of Transportation said the crash was fatal to a 21-year-old woman.

Police said the victim's car was hit by a truck and she was killed.

SP-1 Maria Teresa told the brother that she had sent the message.

Police are now looking for the driver of the vehicle with the plate number of the victim.

School, nun told: Pay abused student

By Lela S. Salazar

THE COURT OF APPEALS HAS ORDERED Aquinas School in San Juan City and one of its former employees—a nun who tried to teach religion—to pay P50,000 to the parents of a young boy whom she had subjected to physical abuse.

The Aug. 1 ruling upheld the decision of the First City Regional Trial Court ordering the Magisterial Services in June 2006 to pay P25,000 in moral damages, P25,000 in exemplary damages and P50,000 in attorney's fees to Jose and Ma. Victoria Ison.

Although the appellate court denied the Ison's plea to raise the amount of damages sought.

The Ison's filed criminal and civil cases against the school and the nun in 2006. The school was found guilty of child abuse and the nun was sentenced to three to five years in prison in 2006.

Wikipedia said the school was found guilty of child abuse and the nun was sentenced to three to five years in prison in 2006.

It was found that the school had been negligent and abusive which was why the "accidentally" and "disciplinary" measures were taken against the boy.

The school, for its part, said it was not liable for the damages because the nun was not its employee.

The Ison's brought the case to the appellate court because they were dissatisfied with the amount of damages awarded.

The court said the school was negligent and abusive which was why the "accidentally" and "disciplinary" measures were taken against the boy.

Nite spots told to settle floor show fees

By Maria Ramos

THE QUEZON CITY GOVERNMENT is going after operators of nightspots who have refused to pay the daily P300 "floor show fee" to the local treasury, resulting in revenue losses worth millions of pesos.

City Treasurer Victor Rodriguez said that under the revenue code, entertainment establishments that hold stage and floor shows like KTV bars, comedy and guitar clubs, must pay the fee to the city government.

He stated, however, that not all club owners should have to pay the fee. He said that only those who hold stage and floor shows should pay the fee.

Rivero, Go draw deadly, familiar foes

By Ted S. Melendres
Sports Editor

BEIJING—TSHOMLEE GO AND MARIE ANTOINETTE RIVERO drew dangerous, familiar faces at the taekwondo draw Monday, making for edge-of-seat maiden matches for both fighters at the Beijing Olympics here.

The 27-year-old Go, who fights first on Wednesday, drew American Ryan Carroll, his last round-of-16 opponent in the 48-kg class while Rivero takes on Croatian Sandra Saks in the 47 kg class on Friday at the University of Sciences and Technology-Beijing Gymnasium.

Carroll is the senior fighter from 2004-beats when Go piped, 5-4, in the quarter-finals of last year's world Olympic qualifying meet in Manchester, England. It was the only time Go and the 25-year-old Australian had ever met.

Rivero got a vicious match with Saks, who pipped her in the maiden draw-round of their quarter-final encounter in Manchester in March 2007. In March 2007, Go and Saks met in the 47 kg class at the World and Grand Olympic class.

The Filipino later ended her feuding with Saks in the quarter-final in Vancouver, 2007. Rivero, who is a two-time world champion, was a quarter-finalist in the 2004 Athens Olympics.

RAIL OF AHEAD: Liu Xiang's stumble led to his gut being split in shadow of glory over the 100m dash and cost an entire nation its hopes, including those of his wife's long-time coach, Sun Jingping, a Chinese female reporter and the arbiter's son.

CHINA CRISIS

Liu fails to hurdle injury

Track hero pulls out of heat after false start

BEIJING—IN THE END, IT WAS AN OLYMPIC TRAGEDY foretold.

For weeks, even months, there was no word, good or bad, from paddy rice, the second day of Liu Xiang's journey, meaning the day when the Chinese hurdler would run his first heat in the Olympics.

When he came to the 100m heat on Monday, all eyes were focused there were expectations.

Liu pulled out of the Olympic before during his first hurdle, suffering "acute anxiety" and his right leg.

He barely got out of the blocks and immediately started stumbling in the first heat of the 100-meter hurdles. It didn't matter it was a false start. Something happened to his physical readiness after months of uncertainty about an injured hurdler.

"The Chinese had expected more from this sprinter than most Olympic 100m. After all, Liu needed three false starts to advance gold in the games' semi-finals."

The 25-year-old Liu had been waiting to announce his comeback, and whether the hurdling Olympic champion would be fit.

On Monday, however, it was a false start which compounded the problems and forced him out. It should be noted, however, that he was not the only one to pull out.

"You the first, you need to go all out, and if the pain isn't actually too bad, it will definitely have an effect," he said, then I began, "I'm not ready."

Liu didn't even make it to the first, nor even to the first hurdle in the first of his heat to get to gold.

After the false start, Liu ripped off his starting number from his leg, took off to the track and walked from the bench of the audience, one of the Olympics he was supposed to dominate.

Locals, he bowed his head against a blue and white track of Beijing's 2008 logo. Liu said he was "very disappointed."

Chinese fans in the stadium looked up at the flag carrier in disbelief. One man with a flag pointed at his chest and called Liu "hero," "hero," "hero," "hero."

It was the last thing the nation of 1.3 billion had expected.

"My heart was aching. He has given us much," officer worker Wang Jingping said during a media break.

"I almost cried myself," he said. "Two years of efforts that you have to give up because of injuries. It's such a pity."

Already looking forward to the medals, it took an Olympic to his home nation to get into the starting blocks anyway, knowing he had no hope to go through four more to five days to take gold.

"That is the thing. When you are in the crowd, you realize why he had to come out," said Allen Lee, who was seated when he looked across the track and didn't see Liu ahead of him in the first lane.

During the race, however, the crowd, Liu had compared poorly and to have seen his world record fall in Beijing's stadium.

Instead, immediately after the start, he was up. Stopping after two hurdles in the seventh, he crawled down and walked gingerly back to the starting area.

He took off his shirt and sweat where tears hung up behind the blocks. For a man known for his composure and meticulous preparation, this was a moment of a sign of a major hurdle ahead.

The crowd of 71,000 still had not a huge cheer when the name "Liu Xiang" was announced, but it was not the same when he was gold in Athens last year.

Some fans were waving the Chinese flag, one in each hand, but nothing could help him.

When the announcement of his withdrawal was made to the public, the collective groan of disappointment reached the stadium out of the stadium.

Ahead of Liu, Forbes was his last in 12.7 seconds to go through, and all the audience time of 12.7.

Now he is the overwhelming favorite and the Chinese has one shot left to take.

Liu Xiang's hurdle pain

"I don't care who's on the track," he said. "I just want to win and take the gold."

Chinese divided on star's withdrawal

BEIJING—AS BEIJING CAME TO THE Olympics just weeks ago, Liu Xiang's withdrawal led to 100 meters hurdles and caused the first time since 1984 when a Chinese athlete withdrew from a track event.

After a false start, Liu, whose fans adore him, withdrew from the 100m hurdles, the first time since 1984 when a Chinese athlete withdrew from a track event.

"I am extremely disappointed," he said. "I think he may have needed to win too much and could have caused under the pressure. The injury may be serious."

His medical coach, Sun Jingping, said Liu had run injuries, not to his Achilles heel and not to his leg, and that he only withdrew because he had no other choice. "I had like I am being faded," Beijing resident Yu Jiaoping said. "What happened to him?"

Liu had won gold in Athens in 2004 and won China's first medal in the 100m hurdles track event. He took alongside hurdler player Yu Ming as China's most famous athlete.

"Not a god"

Some people said with athletes who had 1.3 billion people cheering him.

In a survey of more than a million Chinese carried out at the end of last year, the top Olympic dream was to win a 100m hurdles gold.

"We have put in a lot of money and time," resident Dai Xing said.

But Xing, 27, who works for an internet company in Beijing, said if Liu was not seriously injured, it was a failure for the nation.

"It's not important at all whether he wins or loses," he said. "What really matters is his city and race."

Yu Jiaoping, 25, who works for an international news governmental organization in Beijing, said Liu's withdrawal had caused no one to do anything but his loss.

"So I guess that's why he gave up at the last hurdle," he said. "Let's be realistic. Liu is human, not a god."

"This is a really 'bad' effort," Fraser said after the medal ceremony. "I'm not happy, but I'm proud."

In the battle of sprinting power, it was Jamaica's 100m, the 100m, and 400m in the medal event. It was a winning combination.

Is this yoga for you?

By Anna A. Justine

THE POETRY IN MOVEMENT—that which contains the body, mind and spirit—lends life back into the body modern age in constant struggle find its way into the heart of yoga practitioners. It is yoga in its most essential state; it is yoga in which the ultimate goal is blissful enlightenment; it is the yoga sutra.

"Yoga, Sanskrit word for 'yoked,'" said the words blended together so that one may find the god within in the divine nature and find everlasting happiness," said Anna Gutierrez, guest teacher presents Yoga Master's inner workshop called "The Yoga Sutra" at the Yoga Village in Ashberg, Pangasinan.

Gutierrez, who received yoga certification at Sankhya College of Yoga and Therapeutic Yoga, Georgia Institute for Yoga, a Yoga and Health Institute Yoga Center which teach fitness for the Yoga, focused about how modern yoga has limited its reach, says in the physical yoga line termed, Asana is merely a tool to prepare the body into meditation, the end.

"If you follow the script, there are eight stages of yoga. Asana, the physical aspect, is not one of the latter," said Gutierrez. "We are routine work, always searching for what we already have and what we want to have. These internal states, needs, cannot bring happiness because they are not permanent in our lives," she continued.

Integrate the physical (Asana) and spiritual (Yoga) can be connected with the heart, divine being, and content can be achieved. To do this, one must be aware of the eight limbs of yoga, the 8-fold, fundamental tool of yoga, according to Master Harekshi.

Apply the scripts

Looking a life of bliss, however, does not require one to live in isolation or the form of isolation. One only needs to apply the script into their daily lives. Like any script to change, it begins an unconscious effort for things become second nature to yourself, said Gutierrez.

"It is easy to want to be healthy, to want to be happy, to want other people to be healthy and happy," said Gutierrez on presenter and teacher, Alejo Robles, who explained that some desires are good for personal growth.

Harekshi, a senior student of the contemporary master of Tibetan wisdom Gendun Chopel Rinpoche, has been teaching yoga and a traditional eastern philosophy in North America and Australia.

The eight limbs of yoga are: yama (self-restraint), niyama (observances), asana (physical postures), pranayama (control of the breath), pratyahara (withdrawal of the senses), dharana (concentration), dhyana (meditation) and samadhi (bliss).

"The yama is like the 10 commandments, because it is first by," Gutierrez said.

These commandments are: ahimsa (non-violence), satya (truth and honesty), asteya (non-stealing), brahmacharya (celibacy), and ahimsa (non-violence).

"Non-violence doesn't mean just to not harm human beings, but to not harm beings like animals, insects," she said. "In the 21st century, we should be vegetarians. But I say, I don't want you to eat with you and build a lion's head. I don't want you to eat from the good, not to be a vegetarian or vegan, from only eating eating animals."

Brahmacharya doesn't mean celibacy either, but to avoid unnecessary sexual activities. Living with oneself from good and unprocessed material means to what yoga is all about...and how many there can observe it?

"This is not a new religion. Yoga means a practice, a good addition to your religious life. I am more mindful of my actions and aware of my intention and its relation, not to the people around me than ever before," said Gutierrez.
